

ENGLISH PRACTICE THROUGH READING AND MORE

If you believe in picking up some English through reading, speaking, reciting, listening and watching things in the original, you may consider joining in.

We are going to face a collection of totally outdated English Literature extracts and samples, as well as their up-to-date tv shows or animation version, and significant English names one should know to show off.

Underpinning this is a refreshing occasion to, regardless of the consequences, speak your mind on how pointless it is to learn that seems to be moth-eaten junk in the age when technology has been taking a great leap forward.

WHY

Busy schedule – no way you can squeeze English between Maths and Physics classes but still want to maintain a certain level and struggle to balance all three

WHERE & WHEN

Telegram Chat at least twice a week whenever you manage.

We'll welcome mandatory feedback via both voice and text messages (or any other messenger chat that may last in the rapidly changing world of ours).

Get a trial session via

Reading helps one grow – don't be left behind.